CLOWNS 'N ALL, CIRCUS ARRIVES
Legion Show Greeted First Night by D. C. Officials.

Official and private Washington turned out at Liberty Hut last night to see a real circus put on by Washington's quota in the world war, as represented by the American Legion, department of the District of Columbia.

It wasn't an amateur circus. All-star acts from the big circuses which will come here this spring were presented.

There was everything to make the circus realistic, and most anyone in Washington could have told last night that there was a circus in town by the display of lightning and roar of thunder, followed by a downpour of rain.

Funds to Aid Wounded.
The proceeds of the show are to be used by the District department of the legion as a fund from which to help wounded service men of the city and also ex-service men out of work.

Despite the fact that there is a daily matinee for children, there was a large number present at last night's performance, in most cases, the old folks to see the circus.

Kiddies Ride Bareback.
Three youngsters applied to try "The Mechanic" last night, an arrangement for teaching beginners to ride bareback. A tight belt is put on the youngsters, and they are hooked on to a derrick and swung over the back of the animal, who trots around the ring as he has to do for the trained performer.

The youngsters were game and tried to keep their feet on the back, but most of the time they were in a crouch or trailing behind the horse's hoofs.

James Rhodes, one of the U. S. Senate pages who were the guests of Senator Phelan, of California, at the circus last night, tried the mechanical horse.

Thrills Fill Program.
There was a generous sprinkling of the so-called dare-devil, hair-raising stunts among the twenty numbers on the program last night. And clowns there were galore.

John Shubert, "contortionist supreme," and a veteran with an overseas record, showed the doughboys how to tangle himself up in a knot.

Col. E. Lester Jones, head of the District department of the legion, and in charge of the circus arrangements, occupied a box last night, while Mrs. Jones was the hostess to a number of the soldiers from the Mount Alto convalescing home for wounded soldiers.

Mrs. Blanche Bellac, prominent in Philadelphia society, was a hostess last night, her guests filling two boxes. Among the others present were Senators Robinson, of Arkansas; Ransdell, of Louisiana; Pittman, of Nevada, and Phelan, of California.

Today, the centenary of Susan B. Anthony, while her national suffrage amendment awaits final action, has evoked a call from the Women's party to their sex to redouble their efforts toward having the "Nineteenth" amendment ratified.

"Women should determine anew on this date that Miss Anthony's prophecy and her great hope shall be fulfilled," said Miss Alice Paul, chairman of the party. HOUSE FAVORS D. C. BUSINESS Provides $7,110,066 for Employees' Salary Lift of Agricultural Dept.

Disbursement of $7,110,066 in the District for salaries in the Department of Agriculture was authorized by the House yesterday when it unanimously passed the agricultural appropriation bill. The bill will now go to the Senate for similar action.

In addition to the above amount, most of which will find its way into the coffers of District merchants and landlords, the items of $164,666 for rental of buildings in the District of Columbia, and $136,000 for stationery and other office equipment, which will probably be spent in this city, were included.

The total amount of the bill as finally passed by the House is $30,065,000, a cut of $10,000,000 from the departmental estimates for the coming fiscal year. No drastic changes in the bill are expected by the Senate. It will probably go to the Senate Appropriations Committee tomorrow.

The payroll of the Forest Service leads that of all the other bureaus, with $2,488,150. search work in the National Capital is included. It will cost Uncle Sam just $1,370,010 for his weather prognostications during the fiscal year, according to the bill as passed by the House.

An item of $239,146 for the time-honored package of garden seed, which Congressmen send their constituents as "presents," survived a bitter fight to have it stricken from the bill. Representative Blanton, of Texas, led the fight against the seeds.

An item of $76,850 for preservation work of a number of national forests was included. The total cost of the Forest Service will be $5,777,842.

SCHOOL HEAT CAUSES WASTE

Architect Ashford Says Double Duties of Janitors Is Extravagant.

Heating and ventilating plants in the school buildings of the District are operated by incompetent engineers who also serve as janitors, declared Snowden Ashford, Municipal Architect of the District, at a meeting of the Mount Pleasant Citizens' Association held last night at the Johnson Powell School.

"In every instance the closing of schools on account of poorly heated buildings has been due to the incompetence of the engineer or the fact that his other duties did not permit him to give sufficient attention to the heating plant," stated Ashford.

Inadequate heating of school buildings has provoked widespread complaint throughout the city. The architect explained that the condition was due almost entirely to inefficient personnel.

The architect said that he had estimated that the waste involved in the present system amounted to $57,000 annually, besides the needless depreciation of machinery.

Mrs. Giles Scott Rafter, president of the Council of Parents and Teachers, addressed the association on the needs of the schools in the community.

The eighth grade room of the Henry E. Cook School was described as "a play house if not a mad house," by Karl Langenbeck, a noted chemist. A committee was appointed to attempt to secure eighth grade teachers for all of the large schools.

of the committee on public health, reported on the much-mooted question of ash collection. He read a letter that he had received from the commissioner of public health of New York City, setting forth the fact that in New York ash carts are covered at all times. A resolution was passed calling for the enforcement of the regulation of the District health department, which requires ash carts to be covered.

The association appropriated $100 for the furnishing of the clubroom of the Mount Pleasant Community Center.

50,000 Children Enter District Health Crusade

Fifty thousand Washington school children are expected to enter the second annual health crusade which is being conducted under the joint auspices of the Tuberculosis Association of the District and the Junior Red Cross.

A special committee of teachers has been appointed by Supt. Thurston to direct the movement.

The crusade is world-wide in its scope. Last year children were enrolled from the United States, France, Italy and Belgium. This year other countries will be included. The enrollment last year in the United States was over 1,000,000.

The 26,000 members in the District of Columbia made a national record last year, 14,000 attaining the rank of knight banneret, which is given to all who keep up all of the health rules for fifteen consecutive weeks.
